

The World of Angels?

During September 5, 2010, Sunday Evening Story-Time with the teaching elder he assigned the meaning of 'which' world the saints will judge. He said, 'The saints will judge the world. What world are they going to judge? The angelic world up here in the heavens. The saints will judge angels.'

1 Cor 6:1-8 Dare any of you, having a matter against another, go to law before the unjust, and not before the saints?

2 Do ye not know that the saints shall judge the world? and if the world shall be judged by you, are ye unworthy to judge the smallest matters?

3 Know ye not that we shall judge angels? how much more things that pertain to this life?

4 If then ye have judgments of things pertaining to this life, set them to judge who are least esteemed in the church.

5 I speak to your shame. Is it so, that there is not a wise man among you? no, not one that shall be able to judge between his brethren?

6 But brother goeth to law with brother, and that before the unbelievers.

7 Now therefore there is utterly a fault among you, because ye go to law one with another. Why do ye not rather take wrong? why do ye not rather suffer yourselves to be defrauded?

8 Nay, ye do wrong, and defraud, and that your brethren.

Staying in the context of saints who were taking each other to civil court rather than settling matter between themselves in the church, and honestly using your OWN brain do YOU think that when verse 2 says the saints will judge the world that it means the angelic world? I don't. But that is what the Cunning Royal Jester said it meant. It looks to me like he makes false assignments.

This is David Dowell saying, "Think about it!"
